

The Instructor Conversation

As part of the pre-work for working with faculty to develop in-class, remote, or curriculum related information literacy instruction, it is helpful to have a conversation with the instructor as part of that work.

Think of a recent instruction session or time that you've worked with an instructor to alter an assignment.

What information are you requesting before the meeting with the instructor before the session?
(ex. syllabus or copy of assignment)	(ex. asking about DEI statements on the syllabus)
How are you communicating with the instructor?
(ex. email only)
How are you learning about the students in the course?
	(ex. Statistics about the university makeup)
What questions are you asking about their participation levels in class?
